Celebrating Distinction

CACI's 2005 Celebration of Distinction welcomed the newest stars in our Project Delivery, Technical Excellence, and Recruiting award programs for an evening of rewards and recognition.

Celebrating Distinction

Chairman's Address

Welcome to the 2005 Distinction Awards celebration. It's an honor to host 41 award winners and to see family members and past winners here. This is an event to celebrate all the exemplary work that you do.

I would also like you to know how much this event means to me. It gives me the opportunity to mix and mingle with employees who have added so much to the company. It's a pleasure for me to stand before you and congratulate you on your fine work.

And it's fitting to hold CACI's Distinction Awards ceremonies in such a distinctive place — the beautiful Mandarin Hotel. As you may or may not know, each Mandarin is built near water. We're here tonight on the beautiful Washington waterfront. And as a Navy man, this feature suits me just fine. I'm a proud Naval Academy graduate and was honored to serve this great nation. My Navy days were glory days to be sure, and I'm hoping that you regard these days — your CACI days — as your glory days.

Any glory CACI has is because of stellar employees like you. Each of you has helped CACI reach its goals. We have had an amazing year and we are poised for more growth as we move toward becoming a $3 billion company. Our Alignment for Growth initiative, which is helping us pave the way to an even better future, is well underway.

We all came this far by "Remembering the Basics" — client service, integrity, and you — the talented people of CACI.

And we're going to build upon on all the things we do well at CACI.

With our Alignment for Growth initiative, we have reorganized and re-energized our efforts to serve clients in the most efficient ways. We have grouped business entities together to work smarter.

We're going to keep evaluating ourselves. We're going to ask our existing customers for more work. And, we're going to identify new customers along the way. We're also going to hire more "heroes" like you, and efforts are well underway to do so.

Finally, as CACI grows, so does our Recognition and Incentive Program. We are here tonight to celebrate your achievements — your initiative, your expertise, your attitude. You are the people who will make the Alignment for Growth work. I personally want to congratulate all of you on your outstanding performance and for the contributions you make in supporting our clients and strengthening our business.

You are the present and the future of our company. Please keep doing what you're doing — every day. It's working!

In his keynote address, CACI Chairman, President, and CEO Dr. Jack London reminded everyone of what CACI does well — delivering the basics of client service, integrity, and teamwork.

First-Time Master

Chief Operating Officer Bill Fairl Serves as New Emcee

By Michael Pino

Though he has long been a key member of our top management team, up until recently Chief Operating Officer Bill Fairl had yet to perform in one of CACI's most important capacities.

No, it's not briefing the Board of Directors — but serving as Master of Ceremonies for our CACI awards celebrations.

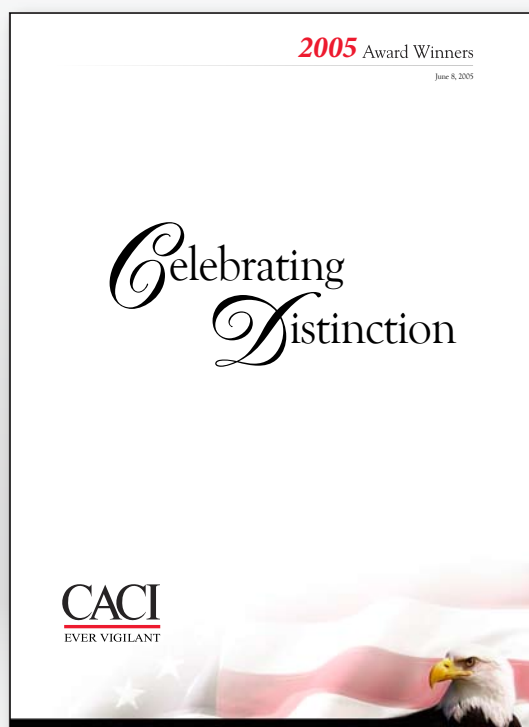

The emcee at these affairs has the honor of calling each of the award winners to the stage and providing a few words on their winning project and performance. This year was Bill's first turn at the dais, and all agreed it was a masterful job.

This year's Celebration of Distinction marked Bill Fairl's first turn as Master of Ceremonies.

"I was honored to present our newest award winners," Bill says. "These events are first-class all the way — great people, terrific awards, and fascinating venues."

Bill also notes that the value of the awards goes beyond simple recognition. "CACI is one of the best at recognizing and rewarding people, and these celebrations are an essential part of our culture. Our award ceremonies are fantastic ways to build camaraderie and a sense of teamwork, and a great opportunity to share in the success not just of our company, but of each individual.

"It's a tradition that I am proud to be part of — and I can't wait for the next celebration!"

If you'd like a copy of the Celebrating Distinction program book, while supplies last, please contact Carolyn Carlson at (703) 841-4406.

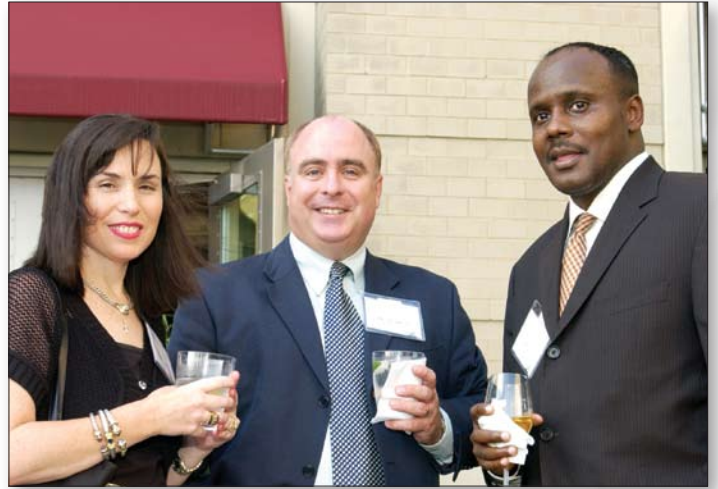

CACI guests like Erin Owen and Project Plus winner Eric Owen each received a specially published book of winners' photographs and quotes.

Celebrating Distinction

This year's Celebration of Distinction was held in the heart of the nation's capital at the luxurious Mandarin Oriental Washington, D.C. hotel. CACI guests enjoyed a panoramic view of both the city and the popular tidal basin area, and were just minutes away from the capital's monuments and government buildings, as well as the historic, artistic, and cultural offerings of the Smithsonian Institution.

Visit CACInet for more information on this year's venue as well as a complete list of all our Distinction Awards winners.

Renee Sullivan and Project Plus awardees Russell Sullivan and Tyburn DeBellotte enjoy a cool breeze at the outdoor reception.

Dr. London welcomes Joanne Burrus and new Project Plus winner Randall Burrus.

Technical Eagle Bill Turrentine and Luanne Turrentine stroll through the garden area.

Dr. London checks in with Master's Division winners Lawrence Jonak, left, and Steve Johnson, right, sharing accolades with Amy Jonak and Ann Johnston.

Staff Eagle Sharon Amoroso and Ebert Luckenbach join Alain Dupecher, who has the distinction of being both a Staff Eagle and Project Plus winner.

Staff Eagle Michael Pino receives his award from Dr. London.

Encore Achievers

CACI's Encore Achiever commendations are now on CACInet in an interactive format that allows you to double-click on a name to see the write-up. In the meantime, we continue to publish the names of all our winners in the CACI Times. Also please note we are still catching up with all our achievers — so if you don't see your name yet, look for our next awards issue!

Distinction Times Two

Lorena Orndoff and Ravi Dankanikote Share Honors as Top Nominating Managers

By Michael Pino

CACI is growing and achieving thanks to the top performers like our Distinction Award winners — and the nominating managers who nurture, recognize, and reward their achievement.

That's why we also give special thanks at each awards celebration to that manager who has nominated the most winners — or, as in this year's Distinction Celebration, those two CACI managers who are sharing the honor.

Lorena Orndoff, from our National Solutions Group, and Ravi Dankanikote, from our Transformation Solutions Group, earned this year's top nominating manager recognition with three successful nominations each.

Even more impressively, Lorena is a "return" awardee, since she was also the top nominating manager at last year's combined Distinction and Excellence celebrations.

Commenting on his recognition, Ravi stresses teamwork and excellence:

"CACI's awards program sends a great message that we recognize and reward good performance."

— Lorena Orndoff

"While three of our fine managers have received the Project Plus awards, this is a reflection of the entire team."

Lorena notes that "CACI's awards program sends a great message that we recognize and reward good performance." On the role of managers, she adds, "Employees do well when they take pride in their work. It's our job to steer them into what they're good at and give them the tools to excel, then reward them when they succeed."

CACI managers can also receive assistance from Business Communications in developing award nominations. Contact Carolyn Carlson at (703) 841-4406, cacarlson@caci.com, to find out more.
