Enhanced Employee Referral Program Announces First Winner

Harris Coaxum Wins Cruise

"You wouldn't believe how excited I am about winning," said Harris Coaxum of BG01's Virginia Beach, Virginia office, when he heard he was the first quarterly Careers Club winner in CACI's Enhanced Employee Referral Program. "At first, I was sure someone was playing a joke on me. When I found out it was real, I was thrilled!"

As a quarterly winner, Harris receives a cruise to the destination of his choice, worth $5,000. "I have no idea where I'll be headed," he explained. "I wasn't thinking about prizes when I made the referral, so this has come as a real surprise to me."

Harris, a computer systems analyst supporting the Space and Naval Warfare System Command in Chesapeake, became eligible for the new reward when he referred Andre Lewis to CACI, and Andre was subsequently hired within Harris's BG01 organization. Harris's name was drawn on July 27 from a pool of 122 names of qualified employees who had also made successful referrals who started work during the April 1 - June 30 period. Winners for the next quarter, the July 1 - September 30 period, will be announced in October.

Harris's manager, Ben Heath, noted that Harris has already made two other successful referrals. "Harris is clearly making fantastic contributions to our organization on a number of fronts, from his day-to-day technical expertise to these successful new hires."

industry already working for CACI, it just makes sense that these same people would have the ability to seek out others who share their expertise.”

According to Ken Johnson, “When someone takes the initiative to recruit a new CACI employee, it should be rewarded. A cruise is just the beginning of the awards we have in place.”

Among the other awards in the newly enhanced program is a leased car for two years and grand prize awards of $25,000, $10,000, and $5,000. [See CACI.net for all the governing rules and regulations.]

“It really is remarkably easy for me to recruit for CACI,” said Harris. “Whether I seek someone out, or they open the discussion with a question, I can ‘get on a roll’ talking about the benefits of being part of the CACI team. Particularly for IT folks who are looking to make a change but want to stay in their fields, CACI is the obvious place to be.”

Careers Club Feature

Careers Club Winner Katey Gregory Visits Las Vegas

No trip to Las Vegas would be complete without meeting the King.

“It’s a pleasure to recruit for CACI because it’s so easy,” explained Katey Gregory, Administrative Assistant supporting the Navy Tactical Command Support Center (NTCSS) Fleet Support contract in CACI’s Chesapeake, Virginia office. Katey has four referrals to her credit and has won a home computer and a trip to Las Vegas, Nevada. “I work with military personnel, and have developed a good rapport with them. As they approach retirement I’ll broach the subject of CACI employment with them,” she said. “There has always been quite a lot of interest on their part, because they see a working group of real happy people who also get together for picnics and other outings. As one person said to me, ‘You guys really take care of your people!’ and I tell them we absolutely do — and ‘you should be a part of our winning team!’”

Eagle Award Winners

Ft. Monmouth Group Wins Team Eagle

CACI's Guardrail/Common Sensor Ground Relay Facility (GRF) team, under the leadership of Chuck Van Zee and Brian Nietzold, won our 3rd quarter FY01 Team Eagle Award. Members of the BG07 Research and Technology Systems organization, the GRF team supports intelligence operations for the Army Communications-Electronic Command (CECOM) Intelligence & Information Warfare Directorate in Ft. Monmouth, New Jersey.

"We put a lot of ourselves into this program," said Chuck, noting that the team's extended field support includes visits to Camp Humphrey, South Korea. "And believe me," he said, "you don't go to field acceptance testing in Korea in the winter for anything other than dedication to the program!"

Added Brian, "Our team worked hard to ensure that the GRF project was a success, and it's wonderful for our efforts to be recognized."

CACI's Ft. Monmouth manager, Vice President Lou Lifrieri, surprised the team with an announcement at one of their monthly luncheons. "Lou was enthusiastic and really built it up," said Brian. "He made it clear this was a significant accomplishment and that he was very proud of the team's effort!"

As Chuck also noted, "When you see an award like this for you and your team, it reminds you of how very critical your work is in the larger scheme."

Howard Porter Earns Staff Eagle Award

Howard Porter, a contracts manager with CACI's Contracts Division, has earned our 3rd quarter FY01 Staff Eagle Award for his support to BG01, our Integrated Engineering Support Systems group.

"I had no idea that I had even been nominated," Howard said, "so receiving the Staff Eagle Award was a total surprise." Howard was cited for his contributions to proposals with the Naval Sea Systems Command, the AEGIS and

Technical Eagle Ron Wehberg Is First in His Group

Ron Wehberg, a member of our BG02 Star Sapphire team, not only has the honor of being CACI's 3rd quarter FY01 Technical Eagle Award winner, he also has the distinction of being the first member of the Sapphire team to win an Eagle award.

"I was extremely happy about receiving the award," Ron said. "I felt honored that my enthusiasm and effort were recognized, and it was a privilege to be the first person from my organization to receive this award."

Star Sapphire is an intelligence project CACI supports in Elkridge, Maryland. Ron joined the group in December, and is already making impressive contributions. As a result of his direct involvement in training, as well as his introduction of new software tools, programming productivity has nearly doubled.

"Ron is a fantastic contributor," said Division Vice President Mike Lustig. "And although he is Sapphire's first Eagle award winner, thanks to Ron's support for his teammates, we're sure he won't be the last!"

How did Ron feel when presented with the award? Ever the team player, he noted that "I enjoyed sharing the experience with my fellow employees."

Submarine Launched Ballistic Missile programs, and the Navy Tactical Command Support Center (NTCSS) Fleet Support contract in Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Before he joined the company in early 1999, Howard was a practicing attorney with a private law firm. Now he works with government contracting officers and BG01 managers on proposals and negotiating contracts. "I try to anticipate what kind of contractual issues CACI might encounter," he explained. "After CACI receives a contract, our department continues with administration and management support — sort of a cradle-to-grave approach," he noted.

"I'm very appreciative of those who nominated me for the Staff Eagle," Howard said. "It's a very gratifying way to be recognized for your work."

Celebrating 20 Years With CACI

Wolmi Kim

Program Control Manager Wolmi Kim said, “I love what I do! I’ve worked with some customers for 17 years. And I absolutely believe in delivering whatever the customer wants.”

Wolmi came to CACI with the QuesTech acquisition in 1998. A member of BG01, she manages several Navy contracts with the Naval Research Laboratory agency. Wolmi went on to explain, “I work closely with customers on all aspects of financial work, scheduling, delivery, and the development of technical subcontracts and purchases. I feel that I have an excellent rapport with my customers, and that has resulted in a very comfortable work environment.”

John Tucker

“What has kept me at CACI for 20 years — and what keeps me here — are the people I work with,” said John Tucker, manager of CACI’s Training Systems Division. “They are unquestionably the greatest! But in looking back, one annual event really comes to mind as outstanding — CACI’s Entrepreneurial Skills Development Courses.

“Not only did I meet people from locations I would never otherwise have an opportunity to meet, but it was a fabulous weekend of learning what CACI was all about company-wide and how we do business, combined with real-world working sessions. I probably attended eight or nine and always left with a richer understanding of the company I work for.”

Gary Fisher

“It’s hard to believe it’s been 20 years,” said Gary Fisher, principal associate in our Bloomington, Indiana office, “but time flies when you’re having fun — and I’ve enjoyed every minute of my time with CACI.

“One of my most memorable ‘adventures’ for CACI was a two-week trip to Europe for a requirement analysis mission for the Navy’s Ordnance Management System project. Despite the rain in London, the shock of topless swimming in Spain, the attempted mugging incident in Sicily, and a one-day whirlwind tour of Rome, it was a fabulous trip. Nothing since has crammed quite so many experiences into one short time period.”
