

CACI Times

October 27, 2008 • Issue No. 58

Honoring CACI

Philanthropy

In this issue...

The CACI Times salutes CACI Project Philanthropy and all our team members who have devoted their time and energy to making a difference in someone else's life. From California to Washington, D.C. and across the ocean to England, CACI people are proving their willingness to step up to the challenge and provide a helping hand.

Inside This Issue

- ★ CACI Project Philanthropy
- ★ Supporting the USO
- ★ CACI Cares, CACI in Motion
- ★ And More ...

“ CACI has served the federal government and our nation for more than 46 years. But we also have another important mission — to be a good corporate citizen that promotes and advances charitable activities that best reflect our unique culture and business. We call this CACI Project Philanthropy.”

Paul M. Cofoni
President and Chief Executive Officer

Dear Team, Dear Team,

---

Winston Churchill once said, “We make a living by what we get, we make a life by what we give.” This is a philosophy CACI takes very much to heart.

For more than 46 years, CACI has served the federal government and our nation through our commitment to leadership in professional services and information technology solutions. We develop and deliver the products and services America needs to defeat global terrorism, secure our homeland, and improve government services.

That is how we make our living.

CACI has another important mission — to be a good corporate citizen that promotes and advances charitable activities that best reflect our unique culture and business. We call this Project Philanthropy. This is the “life we make” for ourselves and others.

Our people have proven over and over that they stand ever vigilant, meeting every need with a dedicated willingness to help. Through CACI Project Philanthropy, as well as other efforts, CACI and our people help to preserve national treasures for future generations, assist wounded military personnel, expand educational opportunities for our youth, and support numerous special initiatives.

This issue of the CACI Times salutes Project Philanthropy and the endeavors of our people.

Thank you for supporting our company’s philanthropy activities and other charitable activities. I’m proud to know you give to others in need the same level of commitment and dedication that you give to CACI.

Paul M. Cofoni
President and Chief Executive Officer

Helping Those in Need

CACI Project Philanthropy is a company-wide effort focused on promoting and advancing charitable activities that best reflect the company's unique culture and business. It is through this comprehensive program that CACI serves our national and local communities with corporate and employee donations of funds, time, and expertise.

Key components of Project Philanthropy are the preservation of national treasures for future generations, assisting military personnel and their families, and supporting core education opportunities for our youth. Included in Project Philanthropy are the CACI Cares and CACI in Motion programs, supporting the individual and team charitable efforts of employees in their communities.

In FY08 Project Philanthropy

was proud to support numerous efforts to preserve our national treasures, including support to the:

- American Red Cross Headquarters - Washington, D.C.
- Company F Memorial & Monument - Medina, NY
- Daughters of American Revolution Constitution Hall - Washington, D.C.
- The U.S. Navy Museum - Washington Navy Yard

CACI Project Philanthropy has a special commitment to support the men and women in our armed forces. CACI has assisted the United Services Organization (USO), and has supported:

- Comfort for America's Uniformed Services (Cause) in its mission to bring comfort and recreation into the lives of America's warfighters recuperating from wounds and injuries.
- Fisher House, to support America's military in their time of need, by providing "a home away from home."
- Military Child Education Coalition, to help level the educational playing field for military children wherever they are located around the world, and to serve as a model for all highly mobile children.

- Pentagon Memorial, a tribute to those who lost their lives at the Pentagon on September 11, 2001.
- Special Operations Warrior Foundation in their mission to provide financial aid and educational counseling to the surviving children of Special Operations personnel killed in training accidents or operational missions.
- The Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors (TAPS), in their program to assist the families of American warfighters lost in combat.
- Our Military Kids to support the children of deployed and severely injured National Guard and Military Reserve personnel.
- Welcome Home Celebrations for deployed troops
- Wounded Warrior Disabled Sports Project, helping service members rebuild their lives.

Education is an important element of CACI Project Philanthropy, recognizing that personal satisfaction and broadened career opportunities are a direct result of educational achievement. Our employees have a long history of participation in educational initiatives, assisting with reading programs, tutoring, mentoring programs and other projects to help youth achieve their educational goals.

A few of these programs include support for:

- Scholarship programs
- School-based technology programs and equipment
- Math skills tutoring and assistance
- Transportation for field trips
- Robotics competitions
- Junior Achievement
- CACI P.A.L.S.
- Everybody Wins! literacy and mentoring program

CACI has a responsibility to make a positive impact on the national and local communities in which our employees work and reside. Please consider assisting CACI Project Philanthropy in performing our important role as a good corporate citizen.

For more information on Project Philanthropy, please contact Meredith Gordon at (703) 841-4493.

CACI is a strong supporter of the United Service Organizations (USO) in its mission to deliver a unique combination of morale building, counseling, and recreational services to our troops and their families around the world.

CACI-Sponsored USO Lounge Dedicated at Reagan National Airport

Continuing Our Support for Veterans and Veteran Programs

By Rosemary Boggs

CACI participated in the grand opening of a new United Service Organizations (USO) lounge at the Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport in Virginia.

The new facility at the Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport serves as a “touch of home” for active duty and retired military personnel, National Guard, reservists, merchant marines, and their dependents. The lounge was made possible through the support of CACI and other corporate sponsors.

CACI President of U.S. Operations Bill Fairl was honored at the dedication of the new lounge for his dedicated support for the USO. Bill serves on the Board of Directors of the USO of Metropolitan Washington, which operates lounges at each airport in the Washington-Baltimore region, as well as at Andrews Air Force Base. CACI was also recognized for its generous contribution to the construction of the lounge.

Staffed by volunteers, the USO lounge provides a hospitality desk, photocopying and faxing services, a video library, complimentary snack bar, free wireless Internet access, and unlimited domestic and international calls, as well as ground transportation and lodging information.

Accepting his recognition, Bill said, “CACI is dedicated to supporting our clients in the U.S. Armed Forces and the Department of Defense, so supporting the USO is a natural fit for us. We are honored to help the USO carry out its mission of service for our troops and their families.”

For more information, or to volunteer your time to assist with CACI support activities of the USO, contact Meredith Gordon, megordon@caci.com, (703) 841-4493. You can also find a longer version of this article in the CACI Times Online on CACI.net.

PHOTO BY STAN POZATEK

Bill Fairl, center, accepts recognition for both his service to the USO and CACI's contribution to the Reagan National lounge. Presenting the award are FAA Acting Administrator Bobby Sturgell, left, and Chairman of the Board of the USO of Metropolitan Washington John Marselle, right.

Helping Our Troops — 10,000 at a Time

By Rosemary Boggs

PHOTO BY MEREDITH GORDON

CACI employee Sheila Adkins, right, and daughter Marissa busy packing.

Earlier this summer, 30 CACI employees and family/friends, including CACI President of U.S. Operations and USO-Metro Board member Bill Fairl, gathered at Fort Belvoir, VA for a USO/CACI “Packing Party.” The event supported the USO

Operation Care Package program, and resulted in 10,000 care packages destined for troops in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The event was such a huge success among employees that CACI now assists at “Packing Parties” twice each month. So far, nearly 100 CACI employees and friends have assisted in packing 70,000 care packages for troops. Packages included such welcome items as snacks, lip balm, tissues, razors, phone calling cards, and messages of support.

The USO gathers donations for the packages. What they needed was help packing these contributions and sending the packages to service personnel. CACI quickly jumped in to support.

You can find a longer version of this article and the article below on CACI.net. For more information about upcoming events or if you would like volunteer for the USO, contact Meredith Gordon of Business Communications at megordon@caci.com, (703) 841-4493.

Also be sure to tell us about your experience and log in your volunteer hours at www.caci.com/webapp/Apps/DonationEmp.aspx.

Nameless Droogs GIT Rockin’ for USO!

By Mary Beth Loutinsky

Besides volunteering to pack gift bags for service members, CACI employees also support the USO by assisting at the USO Lounge at Reagan National Airport, and of course, rocking hard at the State Theatre in Falls Church, Virginia.

That’s because CACI is serving as a primary sponsor of the 3rd annual Battle of the Government IT (GIT) Bands in Northern Virginia, with proceeds to support USO-Metro. And the Nameless Droogs, a band that includes CACI employees Scott Smith and Gagan Anand, has made it to the final rounds.

It began when CACI Project Philanthropy invited employee bands to send in demo CDs. The Droogs were one of four bands responding to the call. All the CDs were uploaded to CACI.net, and CACI employees were invited to pick a winner to represent the company.

The Nameless Droogs, (who also feature Julie Halloway of SAIC, Brad Rowe of CSC, and Brad Seagal of the Guitar Center) moved to round two, and were selected as one of the top five.

The final round was held at the State Theatre on October 16. Competing bands played 20-minute sets, and the audience declared the winner. Sad to say, the Droogs performed to crowd-pleasing applause, but did not take the crown. Still, all were pleased to support the USO. At press time, proceeds were still being tallied — visit CACI.net for the results.

Thanks to our other bands: the BAFO Brothers, in which CACI was represented by Ken Logerwell, Gary Mann, and David

PHOTO COURTESY OF SCOTT SMITH

Shades of Jimmy Page! Multitalented Scott Smith, guitarist with the Nameless Droogs, prepares for the final round of musical competition.

White; engine14: Jeff Berkin and Cheryl Crockett; and The Vigilantes: Dan Jenkin and Chris Pankow.

CACI Cares offers opportunities that enhance the professional, educational and leadership career development of CACI employees, while promoting the spirit of Team CACI. Company-wide participation is encouraged. Every employee is welcome to work on a CACI Cares activity. CACI Cares is composed of volunteer employees from across the company.

CACI Showcases “Heart Gallery” Exhibit Helping Foster Kids Find a Home

By Rosemary Boggs

CACI Project Philanthropy is partnering with the Freddie Mac Foundation for a six week tour to host the Freddie Mac Foundation “Heart Gallery” exhibit in several Washington, D.C.-area CACI locations, including its Ballston headquarters and Chantilly and Fairfax, Virginia locations.

As a community host partner, CACI is displaying an exhibition of the photos and lives of 48 local youngsters currently in foster care who hope to be adopted into loving, permanent families.

CACI has always taken seriously its responsibility to make a positive impact on the national and local communities in which our employees work and live. It was from this recognition of good citizenship responsibilities that CACI Project Philanthropy was born.

Since then, CACI and its people have stood ready to serve to assist our wounded military personnel, expand educational opportunities for our youth, preserve national treasures for future generations, provide support for numerous special initiatives, and take the lead in good citizenship endeavors.

PHOTO BY STEVE GIBSON

One of the Heart Gallery displays in the lobby of CACI's Ballston, Virginia headquarters. Forty-eight children were highlighted in all, each hoping to find a permanent adoptive family.

For more information about CACI's sponsorship of the Freddie Mac Heart Gallery, contact Meredith Gordon, megordon@caci.com, (703) 841-4493. To learn more about the exhibit, visit <http://www.freddiemacfoundation.org/heartgallery/>.

Walk, Run, Contribute — CACI Cares Supports Race for the Cure

By Rosemary Boggs

PHOTO COURTESY OF LINDA KLATSKY

Pat Williams and Maureen Zaino, sporting Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure pink shirts and CACI Cares Team sign.

This year, and for the 10th year in a row, a CACI Cares team has participated in the annual Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure, a nonprofit event focused on raising awareness and research funds to eradicate breast cancer. Pat Williams has championed the effort every year, and this year, with co-captain Maureen Zaino, raised $4,530 to help stamp out breast cancer throughout the world.

The race, held this summer in Washington, D.C., attracted nearly 50,000 participants and supporters. Representing CACI on the 2008 team were Nahid Akther, Deepti Bhalla, Kim Borchant, Debbie Bowers, Phuong-Linh Bui, Stella Cheeks, Tonya Clark, Jameel Daniels, Ryan Davis, Nicholas Dube, Holly Eveler, Shayan Farazmand, Kimberly Gabriel, Gayle Green, Vanessa Harris, Lauren Hickman, Richard Jenkins, Andrea John, Christine John, Elizabeth Jones, Sharon Keller-Raines, Deborah Marine, Jeffrey Miller, Pasquale Rao, Rita Russell, Donna Stewart, Bob Williams, Jennifer Zamora, and Maureen Zaino.

According to Maureen, "It was great to be a part of this effort and know that we are helping to save one more life, one more mother, daughter, sister, friend. I hope even more CACI employees will turn out next year."

To learn more about the Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure, go to www.nationalrace-forthecure.org. You can also contact Pat at pwilliams@caci.com.

Helping Local Homeless Meet Critical Needs

By Rosemary Boggs

Food, water, and air conditioning on a hot day are generally taken for granted. But they're luxuries for the nation's homeless.

When CACI Cares learned how it could help the homeless near our Arlington, Virginia headquarters, it put out a call for support. That call was answered by Transformation Solutions Group Business Systems Analyst Shayan Farazmand and his colleagues. CACI Cares sponsored them with a corporate donation as they took to the field in the August heat to participate in the 3rd Annual Arlington-Alexandria Coalition for the Homeless (AACH) Kickball Tournament.

AACH is a private non-profit organization that provides transitional housing and support services to homeless families and women in Arlington County and the City of Alexandria in Virginia. The organization's charity kickball tournament raises money each year to offer shelter and services to help the homeless regain self-sufficiency.

PHOTO COURTESY OF SHAYAN FARAZMAND

The CACI Cares kickball team is all smiles even after a sweltering tournament. From left, Ariel Reyes, Sandy Preston, Mary Manning, Tony Scott, friend Jose Lopez, Lynadria Ware, Shayan Farazmand, Tremaine Slaughter, James Bullard, Hunter Andrews, Tracy Thornton, friend Chris Loesch, Paul Kim, and friend Magid Elabyad.

CACI Team Captain Shayan Farazmand rallied his team to an 8-3 victory in its first game, but then lost a 2-1 squeaker. And although they did not emerge as a winner this year (they are vowing to schedule extra "winter practices" and are urging more employees take part), they did succeed in helping the effort to create a better life for those in need.

Visit CACI Project Philanthropy at <http://www.caci.com/philanthropy/index.shtml>. To join the team, or learn more about the team's efforts, contact Shayan at sfarazmand@caci.com.

CACI in Motion is a CACI Cares program that provides a way to assist CACI people who are training for walking/running fundraising marathons and the nonprofit organizations their efforts support. CACI will make a donation to the charitable organization on behalf of each employee, as well as provide other innovative ways to support fundraising.

Cycling for Sight: 3 Days, 220 Miles

By Mary Beth Loutinsky

PHOTO COURTESY OF M. GARCIA

ETS Senior Scientist and Pedal to the Park Director Dave White with Nancy White.

Participating in the 3-day, 220-mile coastal Cycling for Sight (CFS) tour from Santa Barbara to San Diego were the Enterprise Technologies and Services (ETS) Group's Dave White, Bob Chamberlin, and Steve Castillo.

The event helped raise awareness and needed funds to provide programs, equipment and services for those visually impaired or blind. CFS benefits the Braille Institute Youth and Career Services Program. CACI in Motion contributed to Dave, Bob, and Steve's fundraising requirement for participation.

In addition to preparing himself for this event, Dave, also founder and director of the "Blind Stokers Club," works closely with 11 tandem teams of sighted and unsighted stokers (rear seat pedalers). These teams trained together for months to participate in the tour. According to Dave, the Blind Stokers "take their message to the streets, while creating personal partnerships, mentoring, and team-bonding experiences."

To learn more about Cycling for Sight, visit <http://cyclingforsight.org> or contact Dave White, dawhite@caci.com, (619) 881-5765.

Raising Alzheimer's Awareness and Research

By Rosemary Boggs

To assist the Alzheimer's Association, National Capital Area, in their effort to raise funds and awareness, CACI's Dennis Kennedy, along with fellow employees Maureen Zaino, Brenda Reed, and Jerry Newsome, formed Team CACI to bike in the annual Tour de Canal.

Although the intended 100-mile bike ride along the historic C&O Canal was cut short by a washout caused by Hurricane Hannah, the event did go on, and Team CACI raised over $2,700 for Alzheimer's research, including support from CACI in Motion.

Said Brenda, "Riding in the Tour de Canal provided a scenic outing that allowed me to focus on the things that are really important. Knowing that the ride supplied funding to assist researchers in their efforts to stamp out this terrible disease was truly satisfying. And it raised awareness, too. With the support of CACI in Motion, family and friends, I think our team result was outstanding!"

Started in 1997, Tour de Canal has raised over 1.2 million dollars towards research and support in the fight against Alzheimer's disease — a progressive, fatal brain disorder that robs a person of their memories, unique talents and their ability to communicate.

To learn more about Alzheimer's disease, visit www.alz.org. You can make a donation by going to <http://www.alz.org/index.asp>.

PHOTO COURTESY TARA GIBSON

Safe and dry, Dennis Kennedy, Brenda Reed, Maureen Zaino and Jerry Newsome await their next biking challenge for charity.

“Par Excellence”

Oxnard Team Supports Veterans Home

By Lawana Godwin

CACI's folks in Oxnard, California took to the links for the 8th annual benefit golf tournament to support American veterans. This year $11,500 was raised to benefit the new Veterans Home of California Greater Los Angeles/Ventura County. The Veterans Homes of California are residential care facilities that employ a dedicated therapeutic community to allow and encourage veterans to live quality lives.

California Department of Veterans Affairs Officials Attend

Joining CACI and their community neighbors at the tournament were several California Department of Veterans Affairs officials, including Undersecretary Roger Brautigan, Major General, U.S. Army (Ret.). He thanked the team, saying, “The contributions from all of you to the Ventura Veterans Home this year — and in the future — will have significant, lasting impact on the quality of life for home members and adult day care health participants. We can't thank you enough for your generosity and support of California's 2.1 million veterans.” In addition, Tom Johnson, Secretary of the California Department of Veterans Affairs delivered a Certificate of Appreciation to the Oxnard group in recognition of their efforts.

PHOTO BY LAWANA GODWIN

California Department of Veterans Affairs Undersecretary Roger Brautigan (right), with CACI's Rodney Kendall, Sinmo Lee, and Scotty McRoberts (left to right) prepare to swing their clubs for veterans.

This annual event was named to honor Captain Paul C. Alaniz, husband of former CACI employee Thelma Alaniz, who lost his life supporting our country in Iraq. Additionally, the tournament theme each year is in honor of a different branch of the armed forces. This year's theme was “Aim High — U.S. Air Force.”

Funds raised from the tournament purchased Nintendo Wii game consoles, flat screen TVs, barbecue equipment, sports equipment, and magazine subscriptions. All will help residents pass time with camaraderie and fun.

For more information about the Capt. Paul C. Alaniz CACI Golf Tournament or how to help a local facility start one, contact Denise Kendall at dkendall@caci.com.

The History of CACI's Capt. Paul C. Alaniz Golf Tournament

PHOTO BY LAWANA GODWIN

Thelma and Lourdes Alaniz

The Capt. Paul C. Alaniz Golf Tournament began eight years ago as a CACI-sponsored event to support Ventura County's “stand-down” to help homeless vets. Three years ago, when the husband of former CACI employee Thelma Alaniz lost his life supporting our country in Iraq, CACI dedicated a memorial to him and CACI Oxnard renamed its golf tournament in his honor. Each year the CACI golf tournament raises money for the college fund of Captain Alaniz's now five-year-old daughter, Lourdes. This year, Lourdes accompanied her mother to the tournament — where CACI EVP Scotty McRoberts presented her with a $1,000 check (up from last year's $500) for her fund. “We feel privileged to continue to help this young girl, whose father made the ultimate sacrifice for his nation,” said Oxnard VP Rodney Kendall.

Still Giving After 17 Years

Bill Sims Supports Children's Hospital of New Orleans

By Rosemary Boggs

For most of the year, Bill Sims is a CACI Enterprise Technologies and Services Principal Business Process Expert. But twice a year he travels from his Washington, D.C.-metro home to New Orleans to serve as "set-builder extraordinaire" and event photographer for that city's Children's Hospital fundraising telethon, and to support their annual Boo-at-the-Zoo event.

Bill's involvement began in 1991 when he received a call from an employee whose sick child was heading for Children's Hospital. He called a friend who served as a volunteer coordinator for the hospital, who quickly stepped in and provided balloons and a teddy bear to comfort the child. But what amazed Bill was the speed at which paperwork was handled, a triage team assembled, and escorts arrived for the child. He learned that was the "Children's Hospital Way." Since that day he has devoted time, skills, and efforts to the hospital.

PHOTO COURTESY OF BILL SIMS

CACI's Bill Sims (left) with Children's Hospital of New Orleans Telethon WDSU Channel 6 newscasters Norman Robinson, Margaret Orr, and Dan Milham.

Among the services Bill has provided is the rebuilding of the hospital's worn and potentially unsafe set used during its annual Memorial Day Telethon. Children's provided a small budget, and Bill and a friend not only designed and built the new set, but spend time each year making sure it's in tip-top shape. This year the Hospital raised $1.4 million dollars during the telethon.

Congratulate Bill on his generosity by emailing a note to wsims@caci.com.

A Lifetime Commitment

Tony Sotrines Continues Boyhood Scout Oath

By Keith Gamboa

CACI open source intelligence analyst Tony Sotrines, assigned to the Royal Air Force Base in Molesworth, England, spends his free time helping the hundreds of American Boy Scouts living in Britain, the sons of parents in the military, government civilian, and contracting communities.

Since the early 1980s, when stationed in England as a member of the U.S. Air Force, Tony has advanced the cause of Scouting in many ways. He helps by setting up summer camps, serving as area director for annual events, helping coordinating the transition to Eagle Scout and functioning as a district trainer and "go-to" knowledge base for other would-be volunteers.

In addition, drawing on skills he learned at the Culinary Arts School in Las Vegas when stationed in Nevada, he can be found preparing gastronomic delights for Boy Scout staff and volunteers. His skill has become renown, as people have been overheard to say they would only be "coming if Tony is cooking!"

The local Harley Owners Group (HOG) is also the beneficiary of Tony's skills. Although the only "Yank" in the bunch, he is actively involved in volunteer fundraising and service work with the group.

PHOTO COURTESY OF TONY SOTRINES

Tony enjoys camp festivities with scouts and other volunteers.

To find out more about Tony's volunteer work with the American Boy Scouts or fundraising projects with the Harley Owners Group, contact him at anthony.sotrines@jac.eucom.mil.

Philanthropy Efforts Won't Stop With Retirement

By Rosemary Boggs

PHOTO COURTESY OF BILL NICKLAS

Bill Nicklas helps bring World War II veterans to Washington to visit the WWII Memorial and take in such sites as the Iwo Jima Memorial.

Several months ago CACI contracts manager Bill Nicklas began volunteering with Honor Flight, a group dedicated to honoring WWII veterans by bringing them to Washington, D.C. to visit the World War II Memorial. Although Bill is retiring from CACI in October 2008, he intends to broaden his involvement with Honor Flight as a flight guardian.

Interest in Honor Flight and its mission runs high among WWII veterans, and they receive over 40 applications each day from those wanting to see "their memorial." Bill's most recent trip was mid-August, when he flew into the Washington area with a group from Dayton, Ohio.

"Soon after we arrived at the WWII Memorial," Bill noted, "Senator Bob Dole stopped by and talked with us. He obliged us by posing for pictures in the hot sun with us for over an hour." The vets also visited the Iwo Jima Memorial.

Honor Flight Guardians are responsible for taking care of veterans on their flights and memorial visits. "Every day, more WWII veterans die never seeing their memorial," says Bill. "It's urgent that we give this opportunity to as many as possible."

Honor Flight gratefully accepts donations from anyone except WWII veterans, who the group believes have already given their all. The flights from Dayton cost about $10,000.00 each.

You can send Bill a note of congratulations and appreciation, bnicklas@caci.com. For more information about Honor Flight, visit www.honorflight.org.

Vets at Iwo Jima Memorial,
Washington, D.C.

CACI Salutes the Pentagon Memorial

By Michael Pino

Seven years after one of the greatest tragedies in our nation's history, its remembrance is made real in a memorial to lives lost. On September 11, 2008, the Pentagon Memorial was dedicated and opened to the public.

CACI President and Chief Executive Officer Paul Cofoni and President of U.S. Operations Bill Fairl attended the dedication. They represented all of us at CACI in saluting this inspiring tribute to hope, renewal, and the cost of freedom.

A Unique Remembrance

The Pentagon Memorial honors the lives lost at the Pentagon and on the hijacked American Airlines Flight 77 that tore through the building. It contains 184 memorial units, gracefully curved benches with lighted reflecting pools beneath each, and each dedicated to an individual victim by its unique placement.

A single victim's name is inscribed on each memorial. They are organized by a timeline of the victims' ages, from the youngest, Dana Falkenberg, 3, to the oldest, John D. Yamnicky, 71. The units representing the 59 lives lost on American Airlines Flight 77 are positioned so that visitors face the sky when reading the names of its passengers. The 125 benches for those who were inside the Pentagon face the opposite direction, so visitors standing at these units face the Pentagon's south facade, where the plane struck.

CACI Support for Funding and Families

The Pentagon Memorial was made possible through the Pentagon Memorial Fund. CACI was one of the first companies to contribute to the fund, and we have continued to provide financial support. CACI Executive Chairman Dr. J.P. (Jack) London personally presented our first check to Pentagon Memorial Fund President Jim Laychak and represented our company at the groundbreaking ceremonies in 2006.

PHOTO COURTESY OF PENTAGON MEMORIAL

The Pentagon Memorial is designed to help our nation remember and reflect on the events of September 11, 2001.

CACI also created our own September 11 Recovery Program to support charitable organizations assisting those affected by the attacks on the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and United Airlines Flight 93.

As part of this effort, CACI co-sponsored the American Patriot Fund with the District of Columbia Society Sons of The American Revolution and other organizations. Through this fund, CACI raised more than $87,000 for the Families of Freedom Scholarship Fund to provide educational assistance to the dependents of those killed or permanently disabled because of the attack on the Pentagon.

Visit the CACI Times Online on CACI*net* for a longer version of this article. You can also find it on <http://www.caci.com/announcement/091208.shtml>.

CACI Project Philanthropy
Serving Our National and Local Communities
Through Corporate and Individual Giving

Project Philanthropy is a comprehensive program that includes CACI Cares and CACI in Motion and serves our communities with corporate and employee donations of funds, time, and expertise. Through Project Philanthropy, CACI and its people are always ready to help preserve national treasures for future generations, assist our wounded military personnel, expand educational opportunities for our youth, and support numerous special initiatives.

Learn more about the program, and how you can help, by visiting Project Philanthropy on CACI*net* or www.caci.com, or by contacting Meredith Gordon of Business Communications at megordon@caci.com, (703) 841-4493.

CACI Times Publisher: Jody Brown; Editor: Michael Pino, Mary Beth Loutinsky; Desktop Production: Jennifer Zhu, Steve Gibson; Employee Communications: Sandy Snyder
Submit articles, photos, and story ideas to Michael Pino via fax (703) 528-4196, mail stop 01/03, or mpino@caci.com

Visit us online: Internet — www.caci.com or CACI*net* — hq.caci.com

©CACI 2008 Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/D/V For Internal Use Only